

APPENDIX E: CRITICAL FACILITIES

This appendix contains information regarding the community assets and critical facilities, such as critical facilities, critical infrastructure, historic properties, commercial/industrial facilities, etc., to include their location with respect to identified hazard areas, in Adams County. “Assets” contribute directly to the quality of life in the community as well as ensure its continued operation. This plan characterizes “assets” under the following headings.

- People: Areas of greater population density as well as populations with unique vulnerabilities or diminished response and recovery capabilities. Examples include areas of concentrated populations, areas catering to tourists (i.e., visiting) populations, facilities housing or serving functional and access needs populations and facilities that provide health or social services.
- Economy: Important economic drivers specific to the community. Examples include major employers and commercial centers.
- Built Environment: Existing structures, infrastructure systems, critical facilities, and cultural resources. The following table includes examples of built environment categories.

- Natural Environment: Resources that are important to the community identity and quality of life, as well as those that support the local economy through agriculture, tourism, and recreation. Examples include areas that can provide protective functions that reduce the magnitude of hazard events and critical habitat areas and other environmental features that are important to protect.

Total Critical Facilities

Figure AE-2 is a map of the facilities listed on Adams County's asset inventory. Table AE-3 then lists and categorizes them.

Assets Vulnerable to Site-Specific Hazards

The remainder of this appendix consists of tables that identify which assets (from the above list) are in the risk areas for site-specific hazards (e.g., flood, flash flood, ice jam; landslide; subsidence, sinkhole; and hazardous materials release). See Section 4.3: Hazard Profiles for information on the hazards. Adams County ran a GIS-based analysis on the assets in the risk areas for the dam failure hazard; that analysis did not yield assets in those areas.

Since the GIS mapping specifically targeting subsidence-prone areas represented point files, planners cross-referenced those assets in the development areas noted as subsidence-prone in Section 4.4 above.
