

ADAMS COUNTY SHERIFF'S OFFICE JOINS IN THE WAG'N O2 FUR LIFE PROGRAM

ACSO K-9 Bomb Dog Allegra

Each year, far too many pets die of smoke asphyxiation even when public safety employees are able to retrieve pets from burning structures or vehicles because they are not able to revive them without the proper equipment. These specially-designed animal oxygen masks can be used on both conscious and unconscious pets suffering from smoke inhalation or exposure to toxic fumes.

Through a generous donation from Rossmoyne Animal Emergency Trauma Center of Mechanicsburg, Pennsylvania, the Adams County Sheriff was able to secure one of the Wag'n O2 fur Life kits and training at no cost. The kit includes various sizes of oxygen masks for pets, air tubes, kennel lead and hand oxygen pump. The Sheriff is now able to assist other Public Safety agencies within Adams County when called upon.

Any individual, company, or charitable organization desiring to assist us in this endeavor by purchasing additional kits may do so by calling the Sheriff at (717) 337-9829 for more information.
